To Whom It May Concern,

Gwen Peng Ling Bramekamp worked for Naganuma Design & Direction for over 5 years as our Senior Designer. Her duties for this office was to not just design, but to help manage our staff and oversee the schedules of our projects.

Gwen's contribution and skills as a designer was greatly appreciated since our company has very high standards. I believe she can bring these high standards to any design firm and she always considers the welfare of the company. Gwen has also been an extremely loyal employee to ND&D.

Several important attributes of Gwen is that she is highly efficient, makes her deadlines on a regular basis and is constantly aware of our clients budget concerns.

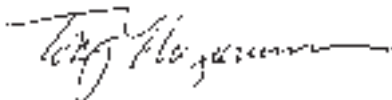

Some of the additional valuable contributions Gwen provided for ND&D are:

- Communicating and coordinating with clients on various aspects of their projects
- Understanding of prepress, printing process and obtaining estimates from various vendors
- Proficient in computer skills, software knowledge, maintained ND&D's computer office network and archiving
- Very creative and a team player

I would highly recommend her to any design firm. She is one of the best employee in over 30 years of ND&D history.

Please feel free to email or call me should you have any questions regarding her abilities

Sincerely,

LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

DATE: 25 April, 1996

Attn: To Whom It May Concern

From: Ken Chiang
CPI Communications

Dear Sir/Madam,

MS. GWENDOLYN TAN PENG LING

Ms. Gwendolyn Tan Peng Ling has been in the employ of CPI Communications from 1994 to 1996.

She first joined us a Graphics Designer, and was later promoted to the position of Art Director on account of her excellent performance. During her time with us, she has proven herself to be a loyal, diligent, and dedicated employee with an aptitude for creative designs.

She has a strategic approach to advertising, both above and below the line, and also possesses an in-depth knowledge of the production process, from color separation to the printing stage.

Ms. Tan is a firm believer in teamwork, and gets along famously with her colleagues. We simply adore her. She is a boon to the company, and we are letting her go with a heavy heart.

Ms. Tan will be a valuable asset to any company, and CPI Communications recommends her to any prospective employer without any hesitation or reservation.

Sincerely,

Ken Chiang
Marketing Director

(Kindly consider this, my unreserved recommendation, a testimonial which I do not give lightly. I would be more than delighted to respond to any questions concerning the above applicant.)

It is without the slightest hesitation that I give my fullest support to Ms Gwendolyn Tan Peng Ling's application for the position in your esteem company. I have, in the course of her studies at Temasek Polytechnic lectured, worked and known Gwendolyn for a period of almost 3 and half years now.

As a student, she has shown tremendous talent, imagination and creative resilience; very often, surpassing her own expectation in both her coursework and the final year project. During this period in question, she has proven to be equally adept and effective in both analytical thinking and skill-based competency. Clearly, this is affirmed by her academic excellence, emerging as one of the merit award students amongst the entire cohorts. This attitude is shown again, evidently by her career growth; having barely graduated from the school for no more than 2 years and to have arrived as a art director with a progressive design company. Considering the intensified competition within the communication and design industry, coupled with the tight employment situation, this is certainly an impressive achievement which only few can emulate.

On a personal level, Gwendolyn is good-natured, zealous, articulate, spontaneous and interesting. I have always subscribe to the belief that interesting people creates interesting ideas; likewise, boring people makes dull, lacklustre and predictable things. Gwendolyn, in my opinion, certainly belongs to the better group. Endowed with all her attributes, her commitment and personal drive, I am very confident that she will strive and perform well in an environment that encourages independence and creativity.

Gwendolyn is determine not to be stymied by her current job prospect and promise (a position which most of her peers will be envious and will not forgo). She is eager, self-motivated and will not be afraid to take up any challenges. Even if it was at the expense of initiating a change, a personal commitment which is inevitable. This is perhaps, the most special quality about this remarkable young designer. Given the opportunity, I am sure she will realise her potential to the fullest. It is a real shame that Gwendolyn will be leaving Singapore, but in the same manner, I am happy for her, having taken up the very difficult decision. I know she will continue to grow as a designer; more significantly, she will be a real asset to her prospective employer - anywhere, and in any parts of the world. I would like take this opportunity to extend my heartiest wishes to Gwendolyn in her creative endeavour and adventure.
